

PRODUCTION TRAINER

An opportunity has arisen to join a successful manufacturing company, based on Flixborough & Foxhills Industrial Estate.

Omni-Pac Group UK is looking for an experienced Production Trainer to join us on our mission of preserving food and the planet by offering high quality, eco-friendly products and taking advantage of the virtuous recycling loop.

Omni-Pac Group is a world leading manufacturer and supplier of recyclable pulp packaging products, with plants in the UK, Germany and France.

Role and responsibilities:

- Promote learning and development of the team, across different departments
- Delivery of onsite inductions to new starters and contractors
- Support in the development of SOP's across the site by engaging with department leads
- Delivery of all SOP's to all departments
- Continuous review of the quality of training, following up with department leads where required to update training appropriately
- Delivery of bespoke training sessions
- Maintaining and updating systems to ensure the training matrix is audit ready at any given moment
- Conducting regular training audits
- Organise external training courses through local providers and colleges
- Train to be a SAP super user to support with SAP roll out across the business
- Support the quality department in various QA tasks as and when required

Qualifications and skills:

- SAP experience desirable but not essential
- Train the trainer certified
- Strong background in adapting teaching styles to suit the trainee
- Excellent IT skills
- Strong organisational skills, ability to manage own workload and prioritise effectively
- Willingness to gain in depth knowledge across all departments in the business to be able to provide continuous support for new starters and existing employees alike

Job specifics:

Hours of work-

3 weeks rotating pattern of 06:00-14:00, 14:00-22:00 and 22:00-06:00. Weekend overtime as and when required.

Salary- Up to £28,000 per annum